DESERTED A GIRL WHO TRUSTED HIM.

LULU BUCKLES, AGED 16, FOUND
AT UNION STATION.

RICHLY CLAD IN SILK CLOTHING.

On Her Finger Flashed a Diamond
Which the Child Says "Will"
Gave Her.

A remarkably pretty girl, who says she is 16 years of age, but may be 14, is being held by Matron Breen at Four Courts. Her name is Lulu Buckles. She is petite, but well developed. Her eyes are large, black and limpid; her hair a very dark brown, and there is a mass of it. She is dressed in expensive clothing. Her broad-brimmed white straw hat is covered with ribbons and flowers, her waist is of summer silk and her skirt, which comes only to her shoe tops, is of black satin. Her hands were neatly gloved, and her shoes cost at least $5 bill. This young woman, or better perhaps say child, was found wandering about the Midway at Union Station Tuesday night and crying. She was taken to Matron Breen and when questioned said she was traveling with her father and mother, who were from New York to San Francisco; that they had stopped at St. Louis for the day and had come up to Union Station. The matron allowed the child to remain at the station all night, and when no parents appeared Wednesday morning she notified the police and the child was taken to the Central District Police Station. There Capt. O'Malley questioned her. The child cried all the time, and kept her handskerchief to her eyes. When asked who her father was a wealthy New York merchant, and lived at 1416 East Sixty-third street. Then she repeated the tale of separation in the uptown streets. The captain questioned her for an hour and told her there was no such number on Sixty-third street in New York, but she clung to the original story. Finally, he asked her to take off her gloves. She reluctantly did so, and when the fingers of a delicately-shaped hand were shown, she sparkled on one a solitaire. "Who gave you this, little one?" Capt. O'Malley asked. "My mother," she said, and then she began to cry hysterically. The police officer waited and at last, little by little, drew from her what she believed to be the truth. It is to this effect: Her father is John Buckles, a wealthy farmer of South Dakota. Two months ago she began "keeping company" with a young man of the town, the son of a railroad official, whose name she says is William Booker. A week ago they were married, and last Sunday night stole out of the house while her parents were asleep and went to the railroad station, where she met Booker and they took train for Chicago. Monday night will tell her he had business in St. Louis, and they came to this city, arriving at 10 o'clock on the Chicago and Alton road. Here he took her into the waiting room at Union Station and buying her a book told her to amuse herself, until he contacted some business untold.

She read the book and she looked at the hurrying crowd, she waited and waited, but no William came. The afternoon passed and it became dark. Then she went out on the midway and wandered up and down, searching for her lover, but in vain. Finally, exhausted and hungry, for she had not eaten all day, she began to cry, and this attracted the attention of a station hand. "Did he marry you, little one?" Capt. O'Malley asked. "No, sir," she replied. He said he would find him. The girl carried in her hand a little purse. There was nothing in it save a gold breast-pin, set with garnets. Matron Breen took the unfortunate in charge, and word was sent to the authorities at South Bend.

HER AWFUL REVENGE.

Emma Ashley Will Satisfy Lucky Baldwin in Living Pictures.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 25.—Emma Ashley, who clipped a lock of hair from Lucky Baldwin's hair with a bullet in court, during the trial of her sister's breach of promise suit against him, will appear as a living picture at Lillian Ashley's benefit at the Auditorium next Monday. She will be seen in four novel groups. The first will be a love scene, in which Emma will represent her sister, and a man will impersonate Lucky Baldwin. In the second Lillian Ashley and her child will be shown in rags, with the turban refusing them shelter. The third will show Baldwin writing in a letter to Emma, and in the last, Miss Ashley and her child will be seen soaring to Paradise.

ITALIAN REVENGE.

New Orleans Man Accused Another of Stealing His Family and Was Soon Murdered.

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—Italian hatred and revenge are responsible for one more murder in this city, the latest victim of cold-blooded brutality being Crescenzio Di Lello, a basketmaker, who, a week or so ago, possessed a wife and three children. A friend, another Italian, Francesco Cascatore, some time ago borrowed several hundred dollars from Di Lello and worked his way into the good graces of the basketmaker, who admitted him to the bosom of his family and accorded all the hospitality he thought the intimacy demanded. Last week Di Lello received before the Second Recorder's Court here and made an affidavit against Francesco, charging him with the abduction of his three children, claiming that his friend had eloped with his wife and had taken his little ones, breaking up his home and causing him bitter sorrow. Francesco had taken his wife to New York, but upon the charge of war was sent to New York asking the arrest of the entire party.

The erring ones were not found in New York. Daily Di Lello appeared at the Central Police Station in this city asking news of his lost ones, but no news was given him. Yesterday the body of a man was discovered in the river. A crushed skull, a rope tied about the neck and a grindstone attached thereto indicated a murder. Upon an investigation it was ascertained that the murdered man was Di Lello, and the indications point to a crime committed by the friends of Francesco in revenge for fancied or real slights upon the name and same of this individual. It is thought in view of the fact that Di Lello was seen upon the river front during the day and his body was discovered before night, that he was murdered and his body cast into the water by the levee.

It has also transpired that Francesco and the family of the dead man did not go to New York, but in New Orleans, and the presumption based upon certain facts in the police's hands is that Di Lello was decoyed on the levee in the hopes of seeing his children and there put to death.

FOUND HIS BROTHER.

F. W. and Samuel Frazer Reunited After Thirty Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 25.—The arrest of Capt. Reed of the vessel T. F. Oaks, for failing to feed his sailors, which alleged failure permitted scurvy to ravage his ship, and the publicity attending his trial, have been the means of uniting two brothers who were separated for thirty years and had mourned each other as dead. Frederick W. Frazer, an auctioneer and notary of this city, saw the name of Samuel Frazer among those of the crew who were witnesses. His brother ran away from home some 30 years ago, and he visited the Ludlow Street Jail, where the sailor is held as a witness, and asked him about his family. "Did you have a brother named Frederick?" he asked the sailor. "Yes," was the answer. "What did the family call him?" "We always called him Bill," from his middle name, William," replied the sailor. "I am Bill," said Frederick, and thus another dramatic situation was as coldly met as was that of Nansen and Jackson in the Arctic regions. The brothers will live together in this city.

FURNITURE FAILURE.

A Prominent St. Joseph Concern in Financial Trouble.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 25.—The St. Joseph Furniture and Manufacturing Company failed to-day, giving a deed of trust to secure $30,000 indebtedness to the banks of the city and to Louis Hax. The company, brought by William Rommel for the loss of an eye, is believed to have failed to-day. The deed of trust was given just before the case went to the jury.

VISIT FULL OF SIGNIFICANCE.

U. S. QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL
WICKES AT THE BARRACKS.

PRESAGES BIG IMPROVEMENTS.

He Will Recommend to Gen. Miles the Amount Necessary to Reconstruct the Post.

Jefferson Barracks underwent an inspection Wednesday, the like of which it has not known for many years. After a visit to the barracks by Quartermaster-General Wickes of the United States Army and Inspector-General T. D. Vroom went over the post, the former to examine the buildings and sanitary surroundings, the latter to inspect the accommodations of the men. Quartermaster-General Wickes' visit to the barracks is the most significant event that has happened since the special commission appointed by Gen. Miles met there last fall to pass on the sanitary condition of the garrison. He will report personally to Gen. Miles on his return to Washington, and his recommendations as to the future of the post will be acted upon by the latter. In army circles the visit of the Quartermaster-General is always looked on as an indication that extensive improvements are to be made at once.

In the case of the barracks the needed improvements have already been reported to the War Department by the commanding officer. To make them an appropriation will have to be made on June 30. Quartermaster-General Wickes is here to determine how large an appropriation shall be made. He arrived on the Iron Mountain Tuesday night, and will leave for Washington Thursday. At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning he was escorted by the Third Regiment Band, and the guard fired a Brigadier General's salute in his honor. He then called on Quartermaster J. W. Summerhays, and with Capt. Summerhays and Lieut. T. B. Rivers began his tour of inspection. All of the buildings were visited, and Capt. Summerhays pointed out what had been done and what remained to be done in the way of improvements. To a Post-Dispatch reporter Gen. Wickes said: "I can say nothing about the purpose of my visit, or its results until after I have reported to my superiors." He said he more than this to Col. Henry on his arrival.

Capt. Summerhays said: "It will be impossible to make the result of Quartermaster-General Wickes' inspection known in advance of the department's action, but his visit here will have an important bearing on the improvement of the post." Lieut.-Col. Henry's friends say that the Quartermaster-General's visit is due entirely to Col. Henry's persistent efforts to have the post improved. Though Col. Henry has been heard to say that the people of St. Louis had "hounded" him, his friends say that he has always had the interests of St. Louis and the barracks at heart, and that even after his removal to Fort Ethan Allen he will continue to use his influence in behalf of Jefferson Barracks. He has been busy superintending the packing of his household effects Wednesday morning. He refused to discuss the probable purpose of Gen. Wickes' visit. "I only know," he said, "that it means the speedy improvement of the post. The people of St. Louis must do something. If they will pull together and use their influence in the proper way a regiment of infantry, two troops of cavalry and a battery of artillery will be stationed here and the post will be made one of the finest in the country."

WOKE UP IN UTAH.

Singular Experience of Alexander Campbell of St. Joseph.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 25.—Alexander A. Campbell, who disappeared a week ago with several thousand dollars of his own money with him, has been located at Salt Lake, Utah. He says he does not know how he got there, but came to himself while walking along the street. Campbell's friends and wife believed he was insane when he disappeared. When it was learned that he took a large sum of money with him the theory of insanity was given up, and it was suspected that a woman other than his wife was the cause of his flight.

THE SPANIARD: "Sell Cuba? Never! I Couldn't Have Any More Fun!"

AN AERONAUT GOING TO CUBA.

TOM CANNON WILL DROP BOMBS
ON THE SPANIARDS.

TO SLAUGHTER BY WHOLESALE.

Arrangements Nearly Completed for a New and Dangerous Experiment in Civilized Warfare.

Tom Cannon, the aeronaut, says he is going to Cuba to demonstrate the practicability of balloon warfare. "There are three of us engaged in this enterprise," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday morning. "A friend of mine in Cincinnati and another in Philadelphia will join me when the summer season is about over, and then we propose to go to Cuba. We shall have a very light-weight balloon, the bag being made in the usual fashion of the balloons used by the army. To this bag is attached a keyboard of 233 inches on the surface, built like the keyboard of a callopie, and at every touch of a key a bomb is dropped. The balloon will have a set of shifting aluminum wings, so that we may know with certainty which way the wind blows. Another thing that has troubled us is the distances from which the explosives can be made effective. You see, we are not up in that sort of thing, but by consulting various manufacturers of powder we have learned much on that score. "A system of signals must of course be now arranged. That can be done in conjunction with the Signal Corps of the army. In going from Havana to the interior it will be necessary to signal us where armies are located, as it would be absurd to drop the bombs on abandoned fields or waste them on the ruins of fortifications. "By means of the aluminum wings it will be possible to hover over an army within half a mile, and the damage which a balloon can inflict is simply incalculable. "Are we doing this for patriotism? Well, the business of ballooning is given up, and the idea has occurred to me that retirement from the public eye is not obtainable and fortune at one stroke and be done with it. In a balloon one man is at a time, and he should be rewarded accordingly. The determination to embark in the Cuban enterprise came to me last Tuesday, just after I had closed an engagement at Jacksonville, Fla., so I ran over to New Orleans, laid my suggestions before those able to act, and secured authority to go ahead. My preliminary have been met by unexpected and almost insuperable obstacles, but now I see no intervening trouble. "Tommy" Cannon, by which name he is familiarly known in his native city of Cincinnati, is a little fellow, 34 years old, sun-tanned, brown-eyed and hard as nails. He has plenty of humor in him, too, as an incident which occurred Tuesday afternoon will show. It is his business, while dangling in mid-air, to distribute handbills, advertising the summer garden, of which he is an attraction. He learned that Chris Von der Ahe and Col. Butler of the garden were at swords' point and his mind was made up to get into the midst. While in the midst of his ascension Tuesday, Cannon found himself over Von der Ahe's park, where a great crowd was watching him sailing away. Instantly he threw down a big bunch of handbills, which spread themselves among Von der Ahe's patrons. Chris was mad, but he could do nothing. Then Cannon observed demonstrations being made in his direction and he let go and shot downward with his parachute. He guessed well, for he landed on the track, just in front of the judges' stand. "Judgment!" he shouted. "Am I in first at the finish?" "Yes," said the judges, and Tommy walked boldly away, amid the applause of the people who had paid nothing to see him come down.

SPECKLES' THREAT.

Says He Will Make the Grass Grow in Honolulu's Streets.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 25.—A Boston merchant is the authority for a bit of gossip intended to explain why Claus Spreckles has taken his present stand in relation to Hawaii and its sugar clause in our treaty. He says Spreckles rushed from San Francisco after the revolution and endeavored to secure the Presidency of the island. Failing in this, he immediately lodged a claim for $30,000 damages to his estates, which was paid. He left the island and has never returned. His threat was that he would make the grass grow in Honolulu's streets. He thinks the abrogation of the reciprocity clause will accomplish this end.

GREAT BRITAIN ACTS AT LAST.

THREATENS TO ABANDON THE CONCEPT OF THE POWERS.

OCCUPATION OF THESSALY.

Unwilling That the Turk Should Stay
There Till the Indemnity
Is Paid.

LONDON, May 25.—A special dispatch from Athens says that Great Britain has declared her intention to abandon the concept of the Powers, if it be determined that the occupation of Thessaly by Turkish troops is to be prolonged until Greece shall have paid the war indemnity demanded by Turkey.

GERMANY'S ATTITUDE.

She Wanted to See Better Security for Bondholders.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 25.—The withdrawal of Germany's objection to the collective note of the Powers on the subject of terms of peace between Turkey and Greece was due to the representations which the Powers, especially Russia, made to Berlin.

Germany, in addition to objecting to sign the note until Greece consented to abide by the terms agreed upon, objected to the indemnity clause, as she was opposed to the indemnity question being settled forthwith and on the basis of the present resources of Greece.

This attitude upon the part of Germany is attributed to a desire to rearrange the Greek finances in a manner giving better security to the German bondholders. The adherence of Germany to the action of the Powers in this respect has greatly relieved the situation.

The collective note of the powers, presented yesterday to the Turkish Government, besides proposing conditions for permanent peace between Turkey and Greece, concludes with inviting the Porte to negotiate with the Ambassadors with reference thereto. The reply of the Government of Turkey is momentarily expected.

CRETE'S GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The Powers Have Agreed Upon Prince Francis Joseph.

LONDON, May 25.—A dispatch to the Standard from Berlin says the powers, including Turkey, have agreed to the appointment of Prince Francis Joseph of Saxe-Coburg as Governor-General of Crete.

THE SULTAN OBSTINATE.

Turkey Is Sending 7,000 More Soldiers to Thessaly.

LONDON, May 25.—The aspect of Eastern affairs is less peaceful. Turkey is sending 7,000 more troops to Thessaly, and it is said that the Sultan has promised his Ministers not to relax his hold upon that province. A dispatch to the Daily News from Constantinople says the Porte has prepared a petition in Greek and in Turkish, to be signed by the inhabitants of Thessaly, praying to be placed under the rule of the Sultan.

Another dispatch to the Daily News from Constantinople says that the identical note of the powers, embodying the terms of peace to which they will agree, declines to permit the abolition of the capitulations in the case of Greek subjects or the annexation of the Greek ports to the Turkish empire.

The correspondent of the Times says the note expresses the views of the powers "in a differentially suggestive form." It is reported from Vienna that Emperor Nicholas has advised King George, for his own safety, to appoint a military governor with exceptional powers and to concentrate 4,000 picked troops at Athens.

The Athens correspondent of the Standard says the powers have assured Greece that the Porte will not be allowed to evade the conditions of the capitulations.

TOP COATS STILL IN ORDER.

Cold Spell Will Hang on for a Few Days.

It's high time for winter to get out of the lap of spring. Here it is almost summer, and Jack Frost is still blowing his chilly breath over all the land. Diana can't go out to hunt because the "shadows and the windy places" are hung with icicles. The young ladies who saw the lawn bench in hammock and the door mats brought their storage places are worn to a shroud with hopes deferred. The young men who hung up their top coats on May 1 are dying for the hospitals. Boreas holds his unseasonable sway from ocean to ocean, and he rules with a frozen face.

Over in Wichita, Kan., at 9 o'clock Wednesday the thermometer registered 72 deg. It is the only warm spot on the weather map. It was 33 at St. Louis and north and east of here the ranges are down near the freezing line. Light frosts prevail in the lake regions and the Upper Ohio Valley. It is cold along both seacoasts. The Carolinas are no more seasonable than Manitoba.

North and west of here rain is falling. Central Missouri was deluged Tuesday night. At St. Louis the rain was on the moisture Wednesday. It will be cooler for a day or two after it clears off. At this time last year the mercury was making daily excursions up to the 90 mark. A protracted spell of intense heat followed by a sudden drop in the temperature brought on the tornado of May 27. Weather Observer Herndon says the meteorological conditions that obtain this spring are the reverse of last year's. The area of high pressure was off towards the Florida coast. Now it is central, in the Upper Mississippi Valley. The frosts will do no damage. Observer Herndon does not look for any general change in existing conditions before the end of the week.

A VERY IMPORTANT ELECTION.

The presence of Mr. Bailey, Democratic leader in Congress, and other eminent Democratic leaders in the campaign in the First Missouri Congressional District, is evidence of how important it is that the majority for Lloyd for Congress shall be at least as large as was that of Cline last year.

The leaders of the National Democratic understand that if there should be a falling off in the vote in this representative agricultural section of the West the fact would be seized upon by the organs of the party of gold and high tariff to evidence that the popular cause is losing strength. Republican gains would be heralded from ocean to ocean as a sign of the weakening of the demand for more money and less taxes.

The election comes at a busy time for farmers. The Republican vote and the gold vote is mainly in the towns, where all it can be easily polled. The men who want a change are in the fields, and they must work hard to maintain themselves. But, as the case stands, two or three hours taken out of one day to vote will be money made. An increased majority in the First District will encourage the forces of good government in every section of the country. It will be evidence that the people are alert, watchful and ready to continue the fight.

This is an important election. The eyes of the country are upon the First District. The people expect every man in it to do his duty.

THE UTHOFF BILL.

Councilman Uthoff appears to have had an idea that the Street Department needs improving, and to improve it he has drawn up a bill taking away certain powers of appointment from the Street Commissioner and adding a lot of new offices that would increase the city payroll by $65,220. The addition to the force of the Street Department thus proposed is at the top—a number of new inspectors and bosses of various kinds. The Street Commissioner says that what his department needs is laborers. It already has enough officers.

What was Councilman Uthoff thinking of when he drew this extraordinary bill? What explanation has he to make of it? And how is it that every few weeks some of his inner consciousness some such absurd bill as this, bringing ridicule, if not suspicion, upon the legislative branch of the municipal government?

Of course this bill will die the death it deserves. But why did it ever come? Will Mr. Uthoff explain?

WHAT REPUBLICANS WILL DO.

The Post-Dispatch, in discussing the proposed increased tax on beer, when it appeared in the Senate bill, ventured the opinion that the Republican majority in Congress would not pass it. We suggested, in that connection, that they might even resort to a stamp duty which would impose an internal revenue tax on paper instruments of exchange and other evidences of business activities, such as existed during and for some years after the war.

It is now stated, proposed by Senator Platt of New York, and others who oppose the beer tax, that we shall go back to the stamp duties as a means of raising revenue. In other words, this is a proposition to tax all forms of business, including the many which are not profitable under present and continuing conditions, instead of one business which is highly profitable. Or, if we accept the view that the beer tax, if imposed, will fall on the consumer instead of the brewers, this is a proposition to impose taxes on trade, rather than add an inappreciable tax, so widely distributed as not to be felt, on an indulgence. The Republicans will do anything rather than reduce tariff taxes to a point where they will yield a just proportion of revenue by making imports possible. But they will hardly go back to a stamp act, which as has been said to Americans ever since colonial days. They will either increase the tax on beer, or they will pass a law without adequate provision for raising revenue and sell bonds to cover deficits.

IF BRYAN HAD WON.

A correspondent who signs himself "A Business Man," and says he is ashamed to confess his identity, writes to the Post-Dispatch, asking: "If Bryan had won would times be better than they are?" "I will admit I was deceived last year," he continues, "and voted the Republican ticket for the first time in my life. I understand now that things could not be worse than they are, no matter how the election might have gone, but some of my friends, who misled me, tell me the election of Bryan would not have made them better. What do you think of it? How could times be better than they are if Bryan had won?"

Two or three columns of space filled with comparative statistics might be given to answering this question, but the essence of this whole money question is one of prices.

Falling prices have always and everywhere produced the same lamentable conditions. Trade, gold standard advocates were candid enough to admit during the last campaign that their success meant falling prices. They promised an increased purchasing power of the dollar, which means, of course, declines in the prices of things which the dollar is to be exchanged. Bimetallism, promised rising prices. The periods of greatest prosperity in the world, and notably in this country, have been those of rising prices, or of stability in prices.

The election of Bryan and the inauguration of bimetallism would have brought rising instead of falling prices. To state the case clearly and concisely, Bryan and bimetallism would have made conditions the exact opposite of those now prevailing.

LEGISLATIVE CATTLE.

The following extract is clipped from a New York dispatch to the Globe-Democrat under date of May 25:

Some of the other developments which sustained the strength of particular stocks were the declaration of a dividend of 1 per cent on United States Leather preferred, the continuation of a stiff premium on the anti-trust shares in the market, and the passage by the Illinois Senate of the bill allowing the consolidation of the Chicago gas companies. On Wednesday last the bill providing for the consolidation of the companies was beaten by a vote of 28 to 17. Scarcely a word of comment upon this extraordinary turn-out on the part of the Illinois Senate was to be heard in Wall Street to-day, and the silence on the matter was the most cynical criticism possible. Not an office, however, with a close Western connection has been for a moment in doubt as to the outcome of the matter since the Senate agreed to reconsider the bill immediately after voting it down last Wednesday.

No decent citizen of Illinois can read this without a sense of shame and humiliation. It means simply that, in the opinion of Wall Street, the majority in the Illinois Senate was bought by the Chicago Gas Companies. The defeat of the Consolidation bill, which was the only bill of the kind held over by the Gas Companies to make them pay a higher price. Wall Street makes no audible comment on the matter, but intimates with a wink that the bootleggers got their price and the Gas Companies got their law.

The purchase of legislative cattle has been going on at a number of the State capitals this winter and spring, but at none has the purchase and sale been more open, more brazen and more shameless than at Springfield, Ill. The Senate, in particular, seems to be the chief cattle market. Prices there may be a little higher than in the other States, but they have to be bought, and so the total cost seems to be satisfactory to the purchasers. If the House is not more honest, it at least has more sensitiveness to public opinion, but the bootlegging corporations are confident that their bills will get through that body also.

What do the people of Illinois think of this spectacle and of the Wall Street view of it?

Henry Havemeyer, president of the Sugar Trust, is in on trial for contempt of the United States Senate. He should plead justification. If there is any man living who is entitled to feel contempt for the United States Senate, it is the President of the Sugar Trust, whom so many of the Senators have sided in robbing the people under the form of law.

Should Spain declare war, as Senator Morgan thinks she will do, it will be to cover the disgrace of a defeat by the Cubans, or because she expects to have a pathetic play and find she has only got an old hunchback pocket handkerchief.

Wall Street Pays Him. From the Washington Post. We fear the Southern people who are declining to turn out and hear Mr. Bynum depict the horror of dishonest money mismanagement the gentleman, Mr. Bynum charges no admission fee, nor does he take up a collection. He pays his own hall rent, his own gas bills, and his traveling expenses. Mr. Bynum makes this sacrifice of time and money merely to save us from an era of 30-cent dollars. Let the Southern people turn out and be terror-stricken by this fearless Hoosier lecturer.

She Changed His Mind. From the Detroit Free Press. "I thought you said, Grumpy, that you would never allow your wife to ride a wheel." "So I did; but she happened to hear of it."

A DREAM'S AWAKENING. Shut in a close and dreary sleep. Lonely and frightened and oppressed. I felt a dreadful chill. A cold, cruel, Whirling and crushing, o'er my breast. I woke, and knew my child's sweet arm. As soft and pure as flakes of snow. Beneath my dream's dark, hateful charm. Had been the thing that tortured me.

And, in the morning's dew and light, I seemed to hear an angel say: "The pain that stings in times of night May prove God's love in higher day." —S. M. B. Platt.

The newspaper that is read in the home, especially if it has so great a circulation as the Post-Dispatch, is unequalled as an advertising medium. Post-Dispatch advertisers get more trade than any others.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

The exclusive use of the afternoon Associated Press reports by the Post-Dispatch enabled its readers more than any other newspaper in the city. This is an advantage the value of which can scarcely be overestimated.

American claims against Spain are increasing. The sum of $25,000,000 is now wanted, and more is likely to be called for. The day that sees the conclusion of the Cuban war will dawn upon a huge Spanish debt, which may never be paid.

A Hessian Prince, it is said, is to be made Governor-General of Crete. Francis Joseph of Battenberg is the man. Royal persons, or persons with titles that have a royal sound, come in for any new place of honor developed by European wars.

Tornado insurance includes chimney pots, but it does not apply to them when balloons come tearing about on people's roofs. In view of the capers of a balloon on Washington avenue there seems to be an opening for balloon insurance.

The New Jersey Legislature has adjourned, after sitting but seven hours. They came together to correct an error, and perhaps adjourned so hastily in order not to commit another.

"Ananas would have pinned away and sickened in Missouri," says the New York Press. Nothing of the sort. He would have had a steady job as correspondent of an Eastern newspaper.

If Ruiz had not been murdered it would be easy for Mr. Calhoun to obtain all the facts in the case. Their concealment is sufficient confirmation of the charge against the Spaniards.

The Duchess of Marlborough refuses to contribute to an American hospital fund because she is "no longer an American." The lady saves her money, if not her patriotism.

It was not Noah who remarked that it was not much of a shower, as a careless morning sheet asserts. It was a citizen who did not believe in weather prophecies.

Father Knapp does not propose to let the grass grow on his grave just yet. He prefers to use it as a carpet in the dewy hours of the Bavarian morning.

The present administration is no more in sympathy with Cuba than its predecessor. Only pressure from the people inclines it toward justice.

The proposal to stand off the Greek debt to Turkey with the Turkish debt to Russia is rather a new way of paying old international debts.

The complaint in the Missouri crop report of a lack of moisture is queer indeed after all the water news we have had this spring.

It seems that many a man who worked hard for McKinley can now find no work for himself.

The Sultan feels almost strong enough to give the British lion a tail a yank.

A Famous Relic.

From the New York Tribune. The British Museum has just secured, through the generosity of the well-known art collector, George Salting, one of the most famous relics in existence. It is known by the name of the Santa Spina, and consists of a large amethyst of exquisite beauty and artistic interest, hollowed out to inclose a thorn from the crown of thorns of the Founder of the Christian religion, white as ivory, and covered with minute paintings on lovely translucent enamel. It was presented by Sultan Saladin to St. Louis of France, and was until a hundred years ago one of the most celebrated treasures of the French nation. Coming into the possession of the late Baron Pichon during one of the periodical revolutions which occasionally turn things upside down in France, it was put on the market at his death, and has now, after a good deal of negotiation, passed into the possession of the English Government at a heavy price.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

From the New York Press. Soon or later the world comes to respect a man who never takes the trouble to give a reason for anything.

The liberty which a man hates most to give up when he gets married is the liberty of loving other women.

When the devil got into the garden of Eden he probably told Eve he had been sent to fix the gas meter.

The average woman would a good deal rather see her husband often by a mad snorer or later the world comes to respect a man who never takes the trouble to give a reason for anything.

A pathetic play and find she has only got an old hunchback pocket handkerchief.

Wall Street Pays Him.

From the Washington Post. We fear the Southern people who are declining to turn out and hear Mr. Bynum depict the horror of dishonest money mismanagement the gentleman, Mr. Bynum charges no admission fee, nor does he take up a collection. He pays his own hall rent, his own gas bills, and his traveling expenses. Mr. Bynum makes this sacrifice of time and money merely to save us from an era of 30-cent dollars. Let the Southern people turn out and be terror-stricken by this fearless Hoosier lecturer.

She Changed His Mind. From the Detroit Free Press. "I thought you said, Grumpy, that you would never allow your wife to ride a wheel." "So I did; but she happened to hear of it."

A DREAM'S AWAKENING. Shut in a close and dreary sleep. Lonely and frightened and oppressed. I felt a dreadful chill. A cold, cruel, Whirling and crushing, o'er my breast. I woke, and knew my child's sweet arm. As soft and pure as flakes of snow. Beneath my dream's dark, hateful charm. Had been the thing that tortured me.

And, in the morning's dew and light, I seemed to hear an angel say: "The pain that stings in times of night May prove God's love in higher day." —S. M. B. Platt.

The newspaper that is read in the home, especially if it has so great a circulation as the Post-Dispatch, is unequalled as an advertising medium. Post-Dispatch advertisers get more trade than any others.

DR. W. J. PRENDERGAST.

This is the late Health Officer of Cincinnati, who was found to have "budded" in connection with the purchase of medicines for the city, and has disappeared before trial.

MEN OF MARK.

Sidney B. Everett, of Boston, who has been nominated for United States Consul at Batavia, Island of Java, is a direct descendant of Edward Everett, the distinguished orator.

Baron Krupp, the great ironmaster of Germany, carries evidences of the trade with him, when he goes calling. His cards are made of iron, rolled so thin that they are said to be a great success for social use.

Justin McCarthy is in very bad health again. The strain involved in completing the fifth volume of "The History of Our Own Times," which is now in the hands of the publishers, has proved too much for him, and his doctor has ordered him a period of complete rest.

Senator-elect Mallory of Florida, when in New Orleans, recently, spoke of his start in life in that city, and told of the struggles he had to make both ends meet. The only times he had enough to eat were when his friends would invite him to take Sunday dinner with them.

Thomas Thompson, the millionaire philanthropist, who left his fortune to his wife with the provision that on her death the money should go to poor women of Brattleboro, Vt., was graduated from Harvard College in 1817, in the class with the eminent historian, George Bancroft. His widow, who is now over 80 years old, is one of the most generous of the day to charity and beneficial enterprises.

WOMEN OF NOTE.

The Empress of Austria is having a statue of Helne erected on her property at Corfu. There is a dainty touch about her latest order with regard to the memorial. Thirty thousand rose trees are to be planted around it.

The body of the late Duchess of Bedford, one of Queen Victoria's bridesmaids, was cremated; the urn was inclosed in a full-size coffin, covered with rich crimson velvet and placed in the family vault, next to the body of the late Duke.

The Queen of Greece is the only woman who holds the position of imperial Russian navy, an honorary appointment conferred upon her by the late Czar because her father held the rank of high admiral, also for the reason that she is a famous yachtswoman.

A woman having passed an examination in veterinary surgery in England, the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons refused to grant her a certificate until the courts have decided that it is legal for women to be horse doctors. She is a Scotch woman and a graduate of a Scotch college.

Mrs. Cragie ("John Oliver Hobbes") is still very delicate and incapable of much bodily exertion, and she consequently leads the life of a recluse. She spends most of her time in her library, but occasionally writes in bed. She never goes to dinner parties or receptions, but retires early to rest.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"What makes you think he is in love with you—the way he behaved?" "No. The way he misbehaved."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Why is the Tennessee Centennial Exposition likely to be very popular with the masses?" "Because it is a Tent, Cent. show."—Boston Globe.

"It seems strange," said Barnstormer to a friend, "that when an egg isn't good for anything else, it goes on the stage."—Yonkers Statesman.

"We are satisfied that those burglars were perfect strangers in the neighborhood." "What made you think so?" "Why, those stupid things tried to chloroform me!"—Detroit Free Press.

"I am surely a royal and noble time," said a knight, as he accepted a State charge, the Daughters propose to keep in good order the cemetery at Springfield, Mo., where the Confederate dead are buried. They don't propose to do it altogether by the deeds of the Confederate soldiers and Missouri.

"Did you tell that young man not to call here any more?" asked Mabel's father severely. "N—no." "Why not?" "I didn't think that was necessary. I don't see how he could call any more now. He calls seven times a week."—Washington Star.

An Uprising in His Mind—"Speaking of Cuban uprisings and insurrections," said Wallace. "I shall never forget one that occurred twenty years ago." Were you present?" asked Perry. "Very much so. It happened about five minutes after I had lighted my pipe and taken a big black Havana cigar."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

The sprinkler ordinance requires that the streets shall be sprinkled four times a day from curb to curb.

The resolution presented by Mr. Madera Tuesday night requests that a two-foot strip be laid dry near the curb of the streets.

Mr. Milner does not see clearly how he can sprinkle from curb to curb and leave a two-foot strip dry.

BARON IN AN ASYLUM.

Percy Cecil Arthur Caspar, the Baron Von der Traube, the erratic young nobleman who has had his share of newspaper attention, will be at home to his friends for an indefinite period at the St. Louis Insane Asylum.

Superintendent Runge, in whose care he has temporarily been, thinks his mind is unbalanced and the Board of Health will issue an order of confinement.

THE TURNPIST PAID. SENATOR VEST'S ANSWER TO ALDRICH.

St. Louis Turners Will Probably Establish a Permanent Home at the Fair Grounds.

Hugo Muench, Chairman of the Central Committee of the North American Turnersbund, says that the financial showing of the recent festival, which was $4,000. We came pretty near returning half of that.

"The festival paid all expenses," he said, "and left a good margin to be applied to reimbursement of the guarantee fund from the local vendors, which was $4,000. We came pretty near returning half of that."

"Of course, that was not paying the Milwaukee shortage, as we hoped to do, but it was better than a loss."

The big mass exercises, which were intended to be the great feature of May 9, and which the rain spoiled, will be given Sunday, May 30, at the Fair Grounds.

"Some of the papers make the mistake of saying that '90 turners will appear,' etc. That is, of course, a misstatement. It should be said that between 5,000 and 6,000 will take part in the exercises, drill under arms, and Muegge. It will comprise all the activities of St. Louis, East St. Louis, Belleville, Alton, St. Charles and everybody else within reach. Except, perhaps, for the visiting turners of the festival, it will be a large assembly."

"Another thing I want to say as to St. Louis Turnersbund. The authorities of the Fair Grounds offer the turners of St. Louis such inducements as will probably lead to the acceptance of a permanent home for turner exercises in the Fair Grounds. It is an ideal place, there are buildings there for the storage of appliances, and the chances are that an arrangement will be made by which the turners will have a permanent home on Sundays at least on the grounds. The matter is now in the hands of the District Committee, which alone has power to act."

ROW OVER A SCHOOL BUILDING.

East Side Districts Both Claim the New High School.

A controversy among factions in what is termed the "Illinois City" and "Central" school districts on the East Side will likely involve the right of possession of the beautiful new High School Building, a stone structure especially located in the latter district. The cost of the building with furnishings is about $100,000.

There is a dispute as to the exact location of the line dividing the district. It is claimed by the Central district that the line should be drawn so that the new school building, which is now under construction, will be located in the Central district by a line 50 feet.

Board of Education in the Illinois City District, it is said, will demand a survey of the districts immediately, to settle the question.

This district has been considering the question of erecting a new High School building, and it is now under construction. The building was completed and dedicated only two years ago.
